University Men Will Try For Rhodes Scholarships

Male students at colleges and universities throughout the United States this month will again have the opportunity to compete for 32 Rhodes scholarships. The scholarship program provides a two-year-financed education, with a possible third year awarded, at Oxford university in England.

According to the provisions contained in the will of John Cecil Rhodes, British administrator and financier who died in 1902, a candidate for a Rhodes scholarship must (1) be a male citizen of the United States and unmarried, (2) be between the ages of 19 and 25 on Oct. 1, 1952. (3) Have completed at least his sophomore year by the time of application.

Prof. J. E. "Burly" Miller, chairman MSU Rhodes Selection committee, said that the committee will begin preparing files on scholarship applicants this week. "Experience indicates that a sound 'B plus' scholastic average is necessary for final selection by the district committee," Professor Miller said.

The qualities which Mr. Rhodes specified in his will as forming the basis of selection are: (1) literary and scholastic ability and attainments; (2) qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy, kindness, unselfishness, and fellowship; (3) exhibition of moral force of character and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates; (4) physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Candidates for the scholarships are selected by state and district committees. There are six states in each of eight districts in the United States. In each state a committee of selection nominates two candidates to appear before the district committee. Each district committee then selects from the 12 candidates the four men who will represent their states and districts as Rhodes scholars at Oxford.

Applications must be in the hands of the state committee not later than Nov. 3, 1951. Preliminary selections will be made by state committees on Dec. 12. Final selections by district committees will be made on Dec. 15, 1951.

The value of a Rhodes scholarship is 500 pounds (approximately $1,345). Scholars who qualify for benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights may expect benefits at Oxford equivalent to those they would receive at an American university.

The first of 21 Rhodes scholars to represent Montana was George Barnes in 1904. The third Rhodes scholar to represent Montana was Clarence Streit, noted author and authority on world affairs, who was awarded a scholarship in 1918. In December 1949, Sterling Soderlind, '50, Billings, was awarded a Rhodes scholarship and is now at Oxford. Of 27 Rhodes scholarships awarded to Montanans, 12 of the winners were from MSU.

Drama Instructor Well Educated On Theatrical Life

Dave Weiss, new instructor in drama, has been involved in the theater for a long time, although he received his M.A. from the University of Wisconsin last year.

At the age of 14 he worked as technical assistant for a Wisconsin professional group. After graduating from high school in Milwaukee he worked as stage manager and actor for a children's theater which toured the U.S.

At Wisconsin he did technical work on practically all the shows, acting in one of them. His specialty is lighting and design. When Wisconsin did a full production of "Peer Gynt," the eighth full production of it in the U.S. Weiss did the lighting.

The Wisconsin chapter of the National Collegiate players elected him president. After graduation he became a graduate assistant there.

This year he replaces Abe Wollock, who is on a leave of absence while studying at the University of Illinois.

Assassin bullets yesterday cut down Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan, one of the top diplomats of Asia.

Ali Khan died in a hospital where he was rushed immediately. Blood transfusions failed to save his life.

Liaquat's assassin, who was torn to pieces by a howling mob as the prime minister slumped to the ground, was a member of a fanatical religious sect demanding a "holy war" against India.

Senator Robert Taft has announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination and predicts he'll be elected.

Eight Egyptians have been killed and 74 others injured in demonstrations against the British in the Suez Canal zone city of Ismailia.

A "mutiny" by 1,300 convicts at the West Virginia state penitentiary has been put down.

In this way, Panhellenic feels that the sororities will gain ideas valuable to their individual well-being, and greater integration among all houses will result.

Representatives will meet tonight in the following houses:

Presidents: Tri-Delt house at 7:30; Juanita Kugler, Livingston, will preside.

Pledge trainers: Sigma Kappa house at 7:30, led by Barbara Blakeslee, Missoula.

Scholarship chairmen: Delta Gamma house at 5:00, with Jackie Loiseau, Missoula, in charge.

Rush chairmen: Alpha Phi house at 7:30, led by Jamie Brennan, Missoula.

Standards chairmen: Alpha Chi Omega house at 7:30; Barbara Schunk, Billings, will be in charge.

President of Student Body Montana State University Missoula, Montana

To all MSU students:

I would like to extend a cordial welcome to all MSU students to attend the Bobcat-Grizzly game on the Montana State campus this week end. You are welcome to be our guests for the full schedule of events to take place in conjunction with our annual homecoming which is scheduled at this time. The parade will be at 10 a.m. Saturday down the main street of Bozeman. The game and presentation of the Homecoming queen will be at 2:00 p.m. Immediately following the game there will be a matinee dance. Starting at 9 p.m. will be the Homecoming ball, to which you are all invited.

Since this is the first time this fracas has been held on one of our campuses in 28 years, we would like to make this a big occasion. The students of MSC, as well as the people of Bozeman, are anticipating a good game; we both will put forth a sincere effort to make your visit an enjoyable one.

Sincerely,
(Signed) Jim Hoiness

Korean War Veterans May Receive Benefits

Veterans of the Korean fighting who are back in civvies are now entitled to some benefits that used to be reserved only for war veterans, according to C. N. Lindsay, contact representative for the Veterans administration.

That means, Mr. Lindsay said, that even though the fighting in Korea has not been recognized officially as a war, Korean veterans are eligible for many benefits on the same basis as veterans of World War II and other wars.

Veterans who saw service in the armed forces after June 27,

1950, and can satisfy other requirements, are eligible for vocational rehabilitation, hospitalization, outpatient medical care, service-connected compensation for disabilities, pensions, and insurance.

Dependents of Korean veterans may also be eligible for death pensions and burial benefits, the same as those available for dependents of World War II veterans.

Mr. Lindsay said that ex-service-men needing hospitalization for service-connected disabilities suffered in the Korean fighting will be admitted to VA hospitals with a top priority. They are also entitled to out-patient care through VA clinics or from private physicians of their own choice. Korean veterans requiring hospital care for non-service connected disabilities may also be eligible for admittance to VA hospitals if there is a bed available and they are unable to pay for private hospitalization.

Vocational rehabilitation is provided for Korean veterans whose service-connected disabilities make it impossible for them to continue at work in previous occupations. The type of training decided on is based on the veteran's disabilities and aptitudes, after conferences and tests with VA training officials, Lindsay said.

Six Debaters Go on H.S. Debate Tour

Six MSU students are giving demonstration debates in 15 Montana high schools this week on the 1951-52 high school debate topic, "Resolved: That all American citizens should be subject to conscription for essential service in time of war."

Prof. Ralph Y. McGinnis, MSU debate coach and associate professor of English, is accompanying the group. Don Cameron, Miles City, is debate captain.

The students were scheduled to appear Monday in Custer county, Terry, Dawson county, and Wibaux county high schools; in Sidney, Plentywood, Medicine Lake, and Wolf Point high schools Tuesday; in Malta and Chinook high schools Wednesday; in Valier, Shelby, Cut Bank and Choteau high schools Thursday, and in Great Falls high school Friday.

Those making the trip, in addition to Professor McGinnis and Cameron, are Raymond Dockery, Lewistown; James Johnson, Butte; Joan Gibson, Butte; and Cathy Doherty and Joan Ward, both of Missoula.

Letters to Editor...

LARCOMBE TELLS EDITOR 'YOUR NECK'S OUT OF JOINT'

Dear Editor:

As regards your Tuesday's editorial, I feel that some degree of congratulations is due you. Not that I agree wholeheartedly with your published opinion on the subject, but I feel that you indeed took a drastic step in order to get someone to fill up that letter basket on your desk.

I don't believe that there is any doubt about your "typical" sorority woman being bigoted, narrow-minded, selfish, and conceited, but won't that be a little hard on your date situation here at MSU? For a boy just off the farm, you seem to have stuck your neck out of joint.

The only ideas ever to come out of Hollywood picture college life as just one football game after another, pep rally after pep rally, and party after party. After the movie build-up, who could ever find time to look at a book? Surely no one ever came to this air pocket to study. Perhaps this is just a good preparatory school for the selfish, bigoted, and narrow-minded life which many people lead after they leave school. Who can tell for sure?

As for "Take Care of..." what is Hollywood to criticize the age-old idea of the hypocrisy of sororities? If there is a more narrow-minded, bigoted, moralless group in the world, howzabout telling us all about it in your next editorial, Dick. That would surely be at least as interesting reading as today's faux pas.

Jim Larcombe,
Corresponding Secretary.

TRIGGER TIPS . . .

By I. C. An'Hear

After Monday's barrage from the crimson clad jokers that call themselves deer hunters the fleet footed specie will be harder to find. With hardly any snow in the mountains yet, the deer will head for the altitudes to avoid the hunters' blasts. They'll stay there until the snow brings them down into the foothills and meadows.

Many campus class-skippers, I mean deer hunters, had good luck yesterday. The Blackfoot country was reportedly the best with plenty of cars carrying the deer towards town. The Boyd ranch in the Ovando area produced sportsmen with 17 elk and a good number of deer in Monday's opening shoot. The Bitterroot and the Clark's Fork river drainages found the hunting a little tougher.

Chuck Robey, Phi Delt from Spokane, gave his hunting fraternity mate, Pat Graham, Colville, Wash., a helping hand Monday by shooting at a porcupine. The porky, evidently confused by the sudden declaration of the deer season, happened to cross the sights of the trigger-happy Robey, who in his dozen shot attempt to claim a kill scared two buck deer out of the nearby underbrush. Graham, who was day-dreaming of North hall women while sitting on a stump down the trail, was awakened by the running deer. The two deer, in their attempt to get away from the madman up the trail, ran straight into Graham, who in his confusion shot one in the head seven times with his borrowed ROTC M-1. Thus, porkies equal a four-point buck.

Duck hunters were given a chance to level their sights last Friday at noon. Since then I've heard a number of tales ranging from thousands of geese to beer parties in Ronan. The report from Ducks Unlimited and the local observers before the season opened was that there were ducks aplenty. Sure there are, but they are all sitting out in the middle of Nine Pipes, Pueblo, or some Canadian reservoir.

The dismal weather of the past week end didn't contribute to the hunters' luck any, since in most cases the ducks that are around proved elusive. Some campus scattergun artists reported fair hunting, others hardly any luck at all, and one fellow just got a few decoys.

A J-school professor got a drake mallard right in class.

Ag Station Offers Way to Determine Elk Whole Weight

"How much did your elk weigh?" This will probably be a familiar question to successful Montana hunters in the next few weeks.

For some hunters, who have the opportunity to simply put the elk on the scales, thus usually is a simple question. For the majority, who hog-dress their animal at the kill site, it's largely a proposition of guessing.

Radio Guild To Record Comedy Show

The first of a series of 13 radio shows to be presented by the Radio guild has been cast and will be taped Saturday for release at a later date, Ross Hagen, Radio guild president, said yesterday.

The first radio production, "The Rivals," a half-hour comedy, has a cast of "comparatively experienced student actors," Hagen said.

The cast includes Kathy Doherty as Malaprop, Mary Luesk as Lydia, Charles Plowman as Lusius, Tom Anderson as Jack, Bob McGuire as Sir Anthony, John Blaskwood as David, and Reldon Shlappy as Acre.

"Immediate plans call for 12 more recorded shows," Hagen said, "but if we can get additional help from student directors we may be able to tape more."

The guild meets tonight and every Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the Main hall auditorium. Committees will be appointed and the cast for the next show will be selected at tonight's meeting, Hagen said. All members of the Radio guild are required to attend to-night's meeting, and all interested students are invited to attend, he added.
